THE FRENCH have a saying: "Tout passe, tout casse, tout lasse."
"Everything passes, everything breaks, everything becomes weary."
Josie Mansfield was buried yesterday in the cemetery of Mont Parnasse, Paris. In 1870, in her prime, she was called "the most beautiful woman in New York," although her character "left something to be desired."
Jim Fisk, Wall Street gambler, friend of Blaine, Tweed, and Josie Mansfield, 521 Stokes, who ran the Hoffman House, with the large picture of undressed ladies by Bouguereau in the bathroom after he came out of jail, died. Fisk died in Grand Hotel on Broadway. Visitors for years, were shown the bullet marks on the marble staircase.
Fisk died, Stokes died, the Grand Hotel was torn down, the Hoffman House was torn down, Bouguereau's "Dance in the Bath" went somewhere else. Josie Mansfield lived on. Now she is dead and buried.
Tout passe, tout casse, tout lasse.

Professor Pickering, whose playthings are the nebulae, stars and planets, has found an interesting "new" object in space. No human eye has seen it, but its existence, size and weight are proved by its effect on the planet Uranus.
The new heavenly giant, called "Planet P," has a diameter of 44,000 miles, whereas our earth is only 8000 miles through. Its distance from the sun varies from five to nine billion miles. That variation is due to the shape of the ellipse in which it travels, something like the shape of an egg.
Planet P is 95 times as far from the sun as we are, and whereas we go around the sun once in 365 days, Planet P requires 656 of our years for one of its years. If you reached three score and ten on that planet, you would be 45,920 years old.
Perhaps we shall go there some day, while traveling from one to another of the "many mansions," and live as long as that.

Michael Reynolds, 3d, 15 months old, inherits from his great-grandmother, Mrs. Borg, $1,785,415. When he gets it, with interest, at 21, he will have about $3,500,000.
The foolish say "lucky baby." That depends on what he inherits, in the brain, at birth, and on his education.
How would you prepare a young baby to receive three and a half millions at the age of 21, in such a way as to prevent his being made a fool by money and by hypocrites?

Dr. Boris Schokloff, of St. Louis, proves to the Pasteur Institute in Paris that lactic acid can be used against cancer.
Twenty-seven per cent of cancerous rats were completely cured by injections of lactic acid and cancerous growth arrested in the remaining 73 per cent.
The value of lactic acid and the energetic lacti bacilli is not fully appreciated. Doctors should experiment with the introduction of lactic bacilli directly into the lower intestinal tract, instead of relying on the bacilli to find their way through the digestive juices of the stomach, into the duodenum, and onward.

Russia has been sending troops close to the Chinese territory in which Japan is making her home. Now Japan sends troops to "the area of the Russians in Northern Manchuria."
Japan wishes "to protect her railway routes," and Russia has an excuse as good. Ordinarily this would sound like a war. But you can't tell what the strange Bolshevik will do. When you expect them to shoot they may begin a Russian dance with boots on, and embrace their brothers, the Japanese.
It seems improbable that Russia would risk fatal interference with her five-year plan or the pleasures of fighting Japan. But if war does come, Japan will find a Russian ally, but pushed over so easily in her days of the feeble czar and corrupt grand dukes.

Berlin reports that "Soviet official circles call the Japanese situation grave."
Russia calls "autonomous independence" Japan's demand that Russian soldiers be kept away from the border.
Russia would like to see Japan able of things more astounding than that.
Gold continues traveling from the United States to France. Four million dollars' worth leave the ship Albert Boncompagni for Paris, yesterday.
The French request, and get out of the United States gold coin, "menhemen like to collect them, because they may have real money in gold, more in proportion to the value of the gold coin," continued on Page 3, Column 2.

Bride of 4 Days to Sue Husband

BARES STORY OF HOW HE QUIT HER

Evicted From Hotel and Shut Out of His Home, She Collapsed

Ending with the sensational collapse of the bride of five days in front of the closed door of her husband's home, a tale of woe, the story of the young woman, of Charles Albertson, 25, and the former Edna Eaton of Lowell, beautiful 18-year-old blonde, was headed today for the courts.
Charging her young husband had deserted her 24 hours after their marriage last Saturday, the girl, who was picked up by police unconscious on the doorstep of the Albertson home early today, prepared to leave City Hospital, against physician's advice, to carry on through her attorney her fight against the alleged abandonment.
At the same time counsel for her husband, characterizing Mrs. Albertson as a "consummate actress," denied she had been left on her own resources at the Black Bay hotel from which she was evicted, called the marriage a "terrible mistake," and intimated counter legal action.

ROBBED BY 2 BANDITS IN WEST END

Empty Wallet, Watch, Chain Taken After He Leaves the Horse Show

Saltonstall, alone, was accosted at Friendland Traverses, at 12-15 a. m., he told police of Hanover station. One man stepped behind him and pressed a revolver into his back while the other, young, slim and dark, ordered him to "fork over your dough."
The young society man promptly handed over his wallet, which, he said, contained a commuter's ticket to Chestnut Hill and a membership card in the National Rheumatism Club, but no money. Then the hold-up men spat their watch and chain and fled.
Special Officers Chalmers and Trooper have been assigned to the case by Capt. John Rooney, of Hanover station, whose morning report to headquarters today, supposed to detail station happenings up to 7:45 a. m., contained no mention of the robbery.
Saltonstall, whose family is one of the most prominent in Massachusetts, lives at 245 Stanton street, Brookline.

'SLEIGHTED' SOMEHOW EDISON'S WILL

William L. Second of Three by First Marriage, Objects to Father's Terms
Wilmington, Del., Oct. 30 (INS)—William L. Edison, of Westover Hills, fashionable suburb, revealed today that he will contest the will of Thomas A. Edison, which left the bulk of his $14,000,000 estate to his two youngest sons.
William L. Edison is the second son by Edison's first marriage. He did not reveal on what grounds he will contest, but asserted action would be taken shortly.
ALSO AN INVENTOR
Edison is also an inventor holding several patents in the radio field. Whether or not he will be joined in the contest by his sisters, Mrs. Marcella Over and Mrs. John Byrne Sloan, and his brother, Thomas A. Edison, Jr., was not disclosed.
The noted inventor's will was filed yesterday. The bulk of the estate was left to the inventors' two sons by his second marriage, Theodore M. and Charles Edison. He stipulated that they decide how much the elder children were entitled to receive, and when they were to receive their share of the estate.

'Red Mike' Tells Tale of Strike Kidnaping

Newburyport, Oct. 30—(The "Red Mike" Shulman, 30, a Lawrence strike leader, for whom an all-night search had been conducted without success, walked into the police station here today and told a colorful story of being kidnaped and held prisoner.
Police, doubting his story, sent for Lawrence officers, who came here and critiqued him at great length. He stuck to the exact facts, but occasionally altered the details.
Another surprising aftermath of the "kidnaping" was the conviction of seven Lawrence strikers in the district court here today. They were accused early this morning while engaged on a hunt for Shulman.
Shulman, with a cut showing on his right eye, and the one blackened—marks which he cited to police as proof of his story—appeared as a witness for these strikers, but all were found guilty and given terms of Correctional House.

UP FOR GRILLING
The red-headed strike leader was then taken to the police station for a renewal of his evidence by Patrolman Matthew McDonald and Michael Shea of the Lawrence police. No charge was placed against Shulman.

HOVER TO TELL PURPOSE OF NAVY LEAGUE

FIGHT AGAINST ADAMS OUT

President Also Demands That Gardner Eat His Words About "Ignorance"

Washington, Oct. 30.—President Hoover was described at the White House today as shaping a fresh attack upon the criticism of his policies by the Navy League designed to show the true purpose of these falsehoods and the people who are interested in propagandizing them.

Theodore Jolia, one of the President's secretaries, today made the following statement:

"The objects of the President's inquiry are: First, to call the attention of the country and members of the Navy League to the issue of falsehoods that have been spread by Mr. Gardner; and second, to show the true purpose of these falsehoods and the people who are interested in propagandizing them."

Results may be far-reaching. It might even come to pass that Charles Francis Adams will resign as Secretary of the Navy League.

In an almost unprecedented statement, Mr. Hoover was on record as demanding a public apology from William H. Gardner, president of the Navy League, for saying he was "abominably ignorant" about naval affairs.

LEAGUE CALLS BOARD

Secretary Adams, upon leaving the cabinet meeting today, was asked to commit to make on the statement by the Navy League or to reply from President Hoover. He said he had not studied the league's claims.

The Navy League camouflaged its executive committee today in order to avoid as much as possible, but officers refused to discuss the statement by Gardner until after the meeting. No such date was set for the gathering.

The executive committee is composed of Col. Henry Beebe, chairman; Mr. Gardner; Arthur Curtis Jones; Henry C. Lodge; Nelson May and Oden Root, all of New York City; Walter Bruce Howe, Washington, chairman of the board of the league; W. M. H. Smith, Chicago; Dr. Douglas Robinson of Madison, N. J.; and James W. Wadsworth of New York.

A presidential commission is to be appointed to probe the statement, which was uttering "misstatements and distortions of fact" when he attacked the White House for trying to "reduce and to starve the mind of the Navy League" and "to make a pronouncement, even more than the Navy League, will be members of the abominable commission."

EMBARRASSING TO MANY

That some of the navy's admirals would be called upon to testify in behalf of the White House appeared probable, and an embarrassing situation seemed certain. They would be placed in an embarrassing position if they were to agree with the Navy League's program for large sea defense.

The executive, in turning this demand for personal satisfaction in the Navy's chief executive, appeared probable, and an embarrassing situation seemed certain. They would be placed in an embarrassing position if they were to agree with the Navy League's program for large sea defense.

BOSTON YARD IN THE CIT

Mr. Hoover recently sent back a proposed navy budget for the fiscal year 1932-33 with instructions to cut $61,000,000.

Secretary Adams, after some consultation with the admirals in charge of operation, returned a revised budget that eliminated approximately $50,000,000 by closing the Boston Navy Yard, abandoning the frigate Constitution, and taking other cancellations certain to stir up intense sectional political dissension.

The President denounced against cutting up the Constitution and scrapping the battleships. Indications from Massachusetts, where the frigate Constitution is being built, and from the Carolines demanded that the Boston and Charleston yards continue to function.

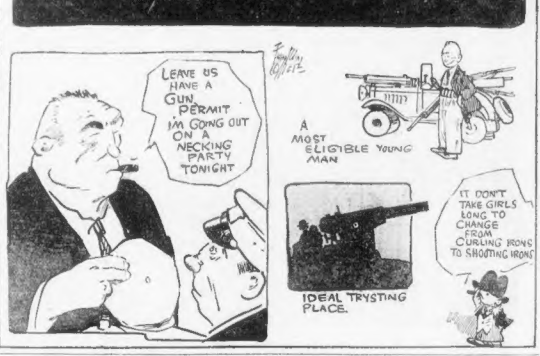

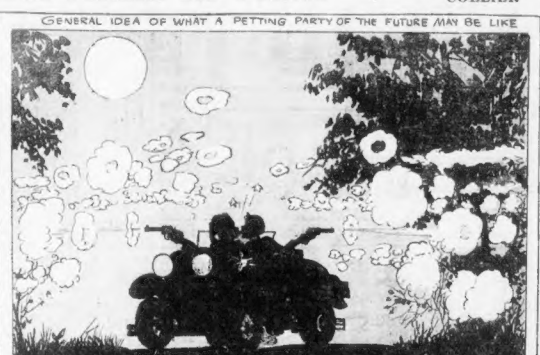

"Misstatements," Says Secretary Stimson

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today the Navy League's attack upon the administration's naval policy contained "diagrammatic misstatements" and "gross errors."

The secretary of state said he had read only the first page of the statement, having laid it aside as unworthy of further attention after this eye fell on a sentence which he said explained two misstatements. The sentence to which he referred said that agreements had been reached between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain at the presidential camp on the Rapids two years ago which had never been divulged in its entirety.

NAVY HOLIDAY ACCEPTED BY WASHINGTON

Note to League Stipulates That Ships Contracted for Will Be Completed

Washington, Oct. 30 (US)—The United States last night dispatched a note to the League of Nations agreeing to conditional suspension of warship construction. The note will be made public tomorrow.

The United States, it was learned, will agree to suspend the building of all ships which are not now contracted for.

DOES NOT CONFLICT

In this, the note did not conflict with the resolution of the League proposing the holiday. The United States did not intend to regard a one-year holiday as interfering with its destroyer program since the destroyers to be built are merely replacements.

The building program, which will not be changed under the new holiday, includes several destroyers with eight-inch gun armaments, three modern submarines, five destroyers and one aircraft carrier, the "Banger," now six per cent complete.

The action of the administration followed the receipt of a formal invitation from the League of Nations. It was predicated on proposals from the British, French, Italian and Japanese ministers.

This has been approved by all the powers with the exception of France and Japan. Whether the "naval holiday" will become operative, it was said, will depend upon what those two nations do.

JAPAN'S REFUSAL SEEN

It was pointed out that with virtual war on her hands in Manchuria, Japan would decline to suspend naval construction at this time, and France would probably take the same attitude.

While Japan has sent a tentative acceptance to the League, it was pointed out that she insists upon going through with construction now planned.

Only Emergency Measures to Prevent "Dumping" in View This Year

London, Oct. 30 (AP)—Action by the National government on a protection tariff policy for Great Britain will be delayed until after the new year, it was indicated today.

The possibility of "dumping" of foreign goods in the interim was feared because the cabinet were considering legislation to check heavy imports may be proposed soon after Parliament meets November 10.

All parties will be represented equally on a proposed investigating committee to make a complete report to Prime Minister MacDonald on the question of a protective tariff as well as other matters bearing on the restoration of prosperity.

I FACE THE FUTURE WITH DREAD; WHY, I EVEN FEAR SPOT OF BLOOD!

Here is Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, in her cell, writing the story of her life, from childhood to the time of the murder she is accused of committing. (International Newsreel photo.)

Here is the third instalment of the life story of Winnie Ruth Judd, written with her own pen and in her own language—her personal story. In the first instalment, published yesterday, Mrs. Judd expressed her determination to tell everything, to hold back nothing. She will name the men and women who have played an important part in her life and detail the events which led up to the dramatic and startling events at Phoenix.

My own story in my own words
By Winnie Ruth Judd

Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.

TODAY, as I continue to look backward into my life, there hangs before me the realization that I still must face the future. I have been asked if thoughts of death and talk of murder strike panic into my heart. I have been asked if I dread what waits ahead,—if I dare to look at reality.

There is no alternative. I must go on. I must face the facts. They do not change. They are.

To me my future is just one big question mark. Can I bear it? So far, my feelings and emotions have been uncontrolled. I am just beginning to function as of old. I am just beginning to feel.

I do not think I will collapse and yet I am feeling weak. Last night my temperature rose rapidly, but things that used to worry me no longer look important.

Yesterday I was told by diviner attorneys of this county and of Phoenix that I must go back and face the music. I am prepared to go.

CAN'T THINK OF DEAD

I suppose that is the only thing. I do not know how the people of Phoenix feel about it. I have tried to read everything in the paper but I haven't been able to find anything about that. But I have been very very good in Phoenix. I have never done anything that anybody should disapprove of for there, except this affair.

The word "murder" I always avoid. I never think of Sammy and Ann as dead. I never think of them when I think of Sammy and Ann. I put them out of my mind. The one thing I think about is the good times we have had together. I am not going to think of them any other way; if I do, it is too hard. I said that my emotions and senses have been anesthetized. Well, I have lots of feelings as far as emotions are concerned. I want to cry and—no body else can do it.

Before I go any further into my life story I want to again repeat that I do not fear to face the facts of my life in Phoenix. I myself will reveal them in my own story and in my own words. In this newspaper.

I do want to deny, as soon as possible, that there was anything but friendship between me and Jack—J. Halloran. There was nothing of the sort. If there is any proof needed for that, there is, but done and done. Continued on Page 14, Column 2.

Harding Wrote Her 60-Page Letters, Says Nan Britton

SCHOOL GIRLS ARE BARRED AT BOOK TRIAL

Defense Attacks Claim That Nan Paid Secret Visits to White House

Toledo, O., Oct. 30.—The trial of the $50,000 suit of Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," against C. A. Klunk, Marion, Ohio, hotel keeper, continued here today with the jury listening to the reading of Miss Britton's book by defense counsel.

The book, "The President's Daughter," alleged that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of Miss Britton's daughter, Elizabeth Ann.

All persons under 21 years of age were barred from the courtroom today when the case resumed.

BAR SCHOOLGIRLS. Announcing that he had noticed several high school girls in court yesterday, Judge Kilitz, presiding, ordered all minors ejected because of the type of testimony involved.

Reading by the defense counsel from Miss Britton's book disclosed her assertion that letters received by her from President Harding, while he was United States Senator, were from one to 60 pages long.

The senator had suggested, the book states, that all communications interchanged between them be destroyed.

CLAIMS ATTACKED. In the "Answer to the President's Daughter," written by Joseph De Barth, Marion, O., now deceased, as a defense of President Harding, and the offending book in the present case growing out of its alleged slanderous contents, the accusation of Nan Britton that she had clandestine meetings.

FREED SLAYER IS HELD AGAIN

Celestino Ardelino never realized how popular he was until he was led out of state prison today after serving nearly 21 years.

Waiting for Ardelino, formerly of the North End, and disporting over the right to arrest him were a Brooklyn, N. Y., detective holding a murder warrant, and immigration officers who are bent on deporting him as an undesirable alien.

Detective George Patton of Brooklyn, was.

U. S. BANS RADIO STATION WMBA

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Federal Radio Commission today ordered broadcasting station WMBA, Washington, D. C., off the air.

The station's equipment was abandoned, did not make full use of its facilities and had mistated facts to agents of the commission.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 30 (AP)—Jerry J. Beebe, owner and operator of station WMBA, notified it was being closed for the air, said he would press an appeal to the commission for an oral argument and, failing that, would take his case to the Federal courts.

All Legs Alike to the U. S.

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Every feminine leg, regardless of curve, size or shape, whether of Broadway's glitzy, or even woman-in-the-future will be entered in stockings of the same length, the U. S. government decided today.

A conference between Uncle Sam's scientists and the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers decided the standard length of a stocking should be 30 inches. For men the length will be 14 inches for size 10 and under, and 14½ inches for size 10 and over.

The government will make an investigation to determine the wearing quality of stockings, studying the effect of ill-fitting hosiery, shoes and garters.

'PEEPER' SEIZED 3 OUT PANES BY CHUTES

Brooklyn, Oct. 30.—Attempting to make a getaway today after police allegedly caught him looking into the windows of a bus near Walter Lane, 27, of Amsterdam, N. Y., crashed his automobile into a wire fence, overturning it. He sustained a cut hand and a companion was pinned in the wreck.

Alimony Holiday

MURIEL REED RENO

Noted British Writer Doubts if Lord Will Provide Jobs Unless Man Helps Greatly

H. G. Wells, noted English historian and publicist, discussed world affairs today, while a guest of friends in Boston, and mildly slapped America for its "provincialism."

In America you still seem to believe excessively in a benevolent Providence who will put things right for you, however happily you conduct your affairs," he explained.

I find the inherent efficiency of production must throw more and more people out of employment. The at an end the Lord will provide employment; that there will be fresh demands to take a pipe slack between production and consumption.

MUST INCREASE WORK

"I don't believe that I believe that America will have to, with every other modern state in the world, greatly increase public works, rehousing, rebuilding your cities, to take up the slack of unemployment that otherwise is bound to occur in a mechanical civilization."

It was suggested to Mr. Wells that this view was in line with the proposal of William Randolph Hearst that President Hoover call for a $5,000,000,000 property loan for public works in order to relieve the unemployment situation.

I don't happen to know the details of Mr. Hearst's plan, but I think the idea of public employment, a step toward socialism, is one that you have to come to," he said.

ISOLATION A FETTER

Another form of American belief in Provincialism, is the belief that American could be isolated and prosper under the new conditions of life.

The world is becoming one

9 YOUTHS HELD IN GIRL CASE

Salem, N. H., Oct. 30.—The story of an attack on two Lawrence girls, of nine Lawrence youths and a dance hall acquaintance, was unfolded here today with the arrest search for as many more.

Working with police of Lawrence, Haverhill and Amesbury, Acting Chief of District announced the investigation would reveal two similar attacks by a Lawrence gang.

Lured from a dance hall on commission of retortments, the year-old girls were victims at "The Dykes," in the pine woods near Foster's Corner, Chief District said, in consideration for the girls, the Boston Evening American will build their names.

The youths arrested were booked as Harry Partell, 17, of South Union st.; James Trifant, 18, Elm st.; Samuel Napier, 20, Oak st.; Stefan Beroni, 19, Newbury st.; Marie Frode, 18, Robertson st.; Joseph Furnari, 18, South Union st.; Ralph DeMarco, 18, Elm st.; Angelo Valdeziani, 19, Oak st.; and Lawrence.

Police said two youths had telephoned the others, calling five automobile loads of friends to the rendezvous.

Connecticut River Loses Steamboats

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 30 (AP)—Operating steamboats on the Connecticut river seems to be at an end after 101 years of scheduled runs.

Tomorrow Capt. Charles R. Baelter will leave for New York, where he will turn her nose downstream for her last trip to New York. She and the Middletown, her sister ship, will be tied up. Officials of the New England Steamship Co. say the suspension is temporary, but it is not expected service will be resumed.

FIGHT TO DEATH BY WITNESS

Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, Oct. 29 (AP).—Details of a hand-to-hand encounter with a wounded lion near Tanganyika, in which W. Z. Herren, American hunter, received fatal wounds, were revealed today. A native gunbearer seized the wounded lion by the tail and pulled it away from Herren, a contractor of Aberdeen, Wash., but his heroism went for naught because the victim died several days later while being taken to a hospital.

Herren, his wife and two other Americans were on a big game safari in Tanganyika, principally for purposes of photography. Herren, with his two sons and a daughter, separated from the others and went to take pictures with only native gunbearers.

Subsequently Herren shot and killed a lion. He had killed a large male lion. Peret started filming the scene as Herren approached the beast when the latter suddenly shouted "Good, he's dead!" The supposedly dead animal had suddenly leaped upon the hunter.

Herren fired but he was too late and man and beast soon were struggling on the ground with the hunter's two hands in the lion's mouth. Peret frantically tried to drive off a fatal thrust. Peret was unable to fire for fear of hitting him and it seemed he would be killed on the spot when a native crept up, seized the lion's tail and dragged it away. Peret then killed the beast.

The victim was rushed by plane to Mwanza Hospital, where he died Sunday from gangrene poisoning. Presumably the men had taken several remarkable photographs of a fight between two male lions over a lioness. It was believed the victorious animal was the one that killed Herren.

IRENE RICH TO FIGHT SUIT

San Francisco, Oct. 30 (AP).—Irene Rich motion picture actress, plans to fight the divorce suit which her husband, David Blankenhorn, filed here.

Blankenhorn charged cruelty. He alleged Miss Rich told him she didn't love him and that living with him had become burdensome and detrimental to her career. His action was filed after the actress indicated a divorce was planned.

"Miss Rich will contest the divorce," said Mendel Silberberg, her attorney.

"It will be understood this will be done with as little publicity as possible, as it is none of her business. It will be only for protection of her legal rights."

The Blankenhorns were married April 6, 1927, at Monterey, Cal., and separated May 15, 1931.

BLIND, SHE SEES HER FUNNY SELF

Bellair, O., Oct. 30 (AP).—Edna Goodard, 9, moved in a new world today—a world of strange people and strange sights.

She is seeing for the first time in her life following a successful operation for removal of a double cataract.

"I'm as funny looking," she chuckled, as she surveyed a new Edna Goodard in a looking glass, now her prized possession.

Edna is beginning the task of learning everything anew. It will be months, doctors say, before she becomes accustomed to the world about her in the ordinary way. A tree is still a major mystery. And she is yet being "introduced" to her family.

Here's Very Latest— a Fish That Winks

London, Oct. 30 (AP).—Periphrastic school lives in the Malay jungles. Its name means, "I can do it." It climbs up into a tree and winks its eye. Then it goes down to the edge of a pool and takes a shower bath by flipping water over its back. All of which is very remarkable, Carvela Wells, explorer, says, when you learn that ceteroscol is a fish, in fact the only fish that can walk.

Chicago Teachers Receive Month's Pay

H. G. WELLS SAYS U. S. 'TRUST IN GOD' WRONG

community. You can't have a happy and prosperous America and have the rest of the world go out of business. It is most dangerous to try it."

Mr. Wells was asked if he considered the present situation "the worst in history."

"I should call it the most dangerous, yet the most hopeful. If we get past the awkward corner, I think there would be more abundance than experience has given us heretofore."

"We are trying to run the world's affairs with sixty odd sovereign governments in the world, all of which have a tradition of warfare and mutual injury, and unless our statesmen and politicians can get over that state of affairs, to some sort of economic and financial world-control, and effectual abolition of war, these divisions mean annihilation."

"On the other hand, if we can take that step forward I think we shall make all the Eutopias look silly."

ABLY BRITISH VOTE

Asked as to his opinion of the recent election in England, Mr. Wells said:

"I don't know any very important fact. I don't know what percentage of the electorate voted, and I don't know whether it has been an apathetic election or whether it has been a panic."

"It was one of those odd elections in which the parliamentary representation was out of all proportion to the number of voters on each side."

"I think the members returned for the national government are about ten to one as regards labor, but the number of voters for the national government is about three to one. So that the support for the government in the country is not nearly so overwhelming as it is in Parliament."

"There is a very considerable body of potential discontent which under conditions of distress might develop into a serious left movement, much more in the direction of communism than the Labor party has been hitherto."

GOLD POOR STANDARD

"I am not a believer in the gold standard. The gold standard worked very well as international currency before the war because gold remained in circulation. Directly the reservation and hoarding of gold appeared on a considerable scale gold ceased to be a satisfactory medium of exchange."

"A process of deflation occurs, prices fall, overhead charges become more burdensome and enterprises are strangled. This has been happening throughout the world."

Mr. Wells arrived in Boston late last night and will leave Saturday morning. The purpose of his visit was to read and deliver a paper at the latest book entitled "The Social, Economic and Political Life of Mankind" to be published by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

Mr. Wells said conditions caused earlier publication than had been planned.

He appeared robust and was bubbling over with ideas and enthusiasm as usual.

Actress Will Drop
Her Suit Over Baby

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.—Fifth Noble, young American actress, today moved to abandon her suit suit to set aside the adoption of her 2½-year-old son, "Alexander Hayes," by Bruce, the husband of the actress's sister who charged was the father of the child.

Mystery surrounded announcement that Miss Noble's attorney said the action would be dismissed when called for hearing in Superior Court today. Terms of a reported settlement were not made public.

Rejection Slip for Einstein

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Things are getting so tough that Einstein is disputing his own theories.

He just laid another egg that sums up the first four Einstein successes. In liquid measure Einstein means one stein. And that was knocked off by our own Eighteenth theory.

The German mathematical athlete is convinced that space has five dimensions. Four rooms and kitchenette.

He certainly picked a sweet moment to plaster us with more statistics. The assay is shrinking like flannel underwear, the Bank of England has discarded its gold wedding ring and if Wall Street goes any further South the boys will think Spanish moss is money.

We advise Einstein to pull his theories down over his ears for the winter. We're busy hustling the wall away from the burglar alarm.

The sun is breaking through the clouds. But we ain't cracked yet. Copyright, 1931, assumed by Universal Service, Inc.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN GEORGIA

Quitman, Ga., Oct. 30 (AP)—Flames, intensified by fall winds and conditions of drought swept through the pine forests of south Georgia along a wide front today.

Foresters, farmers, naval stores operators and private citizens were fighting the fires.

Royal Daniel, Quitman newspaper publisher, said a survey disclosed the fires extended along a wide belt practically from Brunswick, on the coast, across the extreme southern edge of the State to beyond Quitman, miles inland.

In Brooks County there were bad fires in second growth timber, but Daniel said the damage in that community was slight compared with that in Echols, Charlton and Clinch Counties, where thousands of acres of forested timberlands were in flames.

An automobile-truck collision, in which three persons died, Monday, Ga., was attributed to smoke haze and fog.

Hubby Who Always Got His Meals Last Granted Divorce

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—Meal time, all the time, it was just a case of being last for Merrett Bell.

At the dinner table, the plaintiff would be passed first in his mother-in-law, Bell told divorce Judge Samuel H. Silbert. Next came wife's two children by a former marriage and then Mrs. Bell. What was left, he got, Bell said.

"Family life for me was nothing but last place, last say, or last word," Bell complained.

He got a divorce.

Judge Defends Bets and "Good Bootlegs"

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—County Judge Paul Bonynge, Rockville Center, today carried on his campaign for reelection in unique manner. Because he said he likes to drink or two once in a while, and occasionally makes a bet, he said a political rally he did not think a man who sold good liquor was guilty of maintaining a public nuisance, nor a man who made a wager a sinner.

Returning Mexicans Take Back Gold

Mexico City, Oct. 30 (AP)—Tip-ward of 20,000,000 gold pesos have returned to Mexico in the last 45 days, it was learned today. Much of the money was held in banks abroad by Mexicans who have returned home.

After Mexico's new monetary law became effective in July, many millions of pesos left the country. It is now said, however, that more gold has returned than left at that time.

BRIDE OF FOUR DAYS THREATENS TO SUE HUSBAND

"You are a stranger," the girl said, and police were called to take her to the hospital. Still in bed there today, her long golden hair a background on her pillow for a face of remarkable beauty, the youthful wife told a reporter for the Boston Evening American her version of the "wedding" romance.

"I met Charles in Lowell two years ago," she said, and we have been going together ever since. We were immediately attracted to each other, in spite of the difference in our religious faiths and in our ages.

IN VIRGINIA CRASH
"Last September we planned an elopement to California, and started there by automobile. The trip ended at Roanoke, Va., where we were in an automobile accident."

"Charles wasn't hurt, but I was in the hospital there for two weeks. He came to see me every day, and finally told me that his family was worried and that we had better return to Boston."

"We came back, and went to a hotel here, where Charles had his brother Albert come to see us. He told Albert we were married, and Albert got awfully mad and said we'd have to get a divorce right away."

"Albert told Charles 'This will kill your father and mother, and then Charles confessed that we weren't married."

"We talked it over and decided to separate for a while. Now two weeks ago I went back to Waltham where I had been working.

"Last Saturday, Charles came there after me, and we went to Nashua and were married."
"My friend, Dorothy Duflos, went with us as a witness and the other was a man friend of Charles, whom I didn't know."

"That night we came back to the hotel here."
"Sunday afternoon Charles left me, saying he was going to see his family and tell them we were married. He said he would be back by 6 o'clock."

WANTS UP ALL NIGHT
"I waited up all that night for him, but he didn't come back, and there wasn't any word from him."
"Monday he called me up and told me not to be angry at him for staying away, because he had fixed things up with his family and everything was all right, and he would come and get me. He promised on his word of honor he would come and get me."

"I waited and waited and waited again, for hours, and finally told me that his family was worried and that we had better return to Boston."

TREADWAY HAS DEADLOCK CURE

Pittsfield, Oct. 30 (AP)—Congressman Allen T. Treadway, Republican, has advanced a temporary solution for the possible deadlock which will confront the House in its selection of a speaker when it convenes November 7.

The congressman proposed the selection of William Tyler Page of Maryland, clerk of the House, as temporary speaker; that each committee be named as necessary to carry out the President's recommendations; and that the membership of these committees consist of an equal number of members of each party or be based on an equitable understanding.

Treadway said that he wanted it understood that his proposal would be only a temporary proposition to further prompt action on

"Why do I get tired so quickly while he can run all day?"

[For one thing, he eats Bond Bread and gets enough sunshine vitamin-D]

Ask your Scout Leader how vitamin-D builds up endurance

AN IMPORTANT scientific discovery now makes it easy to get enough sunshine vitamin-D, scarcest of all the health-building elements . . . the one which builds endurance . . . helps fight off colds and illness . . . helps make straight strong bones, and sound even teeth.

NOW IN BOND BREAD

Heretofore you could get enough sunshine vitamin-D only through the ultra-violet rays of the midday sun, through man-made sun-lamps and through medicines.

Now you can get all the extra vitamin-D you need, simply by eating one to two slices of Bond Bread a meal. The honor of bringing you the benefits of this new scientific process has been awarded exclusively to the bakers of your own delicious favorite, Bond Bread . . . the only bread of which you can always be sure, because, in its making, the rising is stopped at the Flavor-Peak.

Get vitamin-D Bond Bread at your grocer's. Even with its priceless new improvement, Bond Bread costs the same as you formerly paid.

PROTOCOL AND AGENDA MAKE DIPLOMACY FUTILE

By GILBERT SELDES

IT SEEMS TO BE THE PURPOSE of modern life to break a tradition every day. When the new bridge connecting New York and New Jersey was opened the soldiers marching across it did not break step; putting their trust in steel and masonry and good engineering, they marched proudly—and the writers of books on physics will have to revise for the new edition. The Mayor of New York, lending his attractive presence to a football game played by teams which have played and will play again for charity, instead of coming to the dedication, broke another tradition, placing the welfare of the poor over the triumphs of building. But most iconoclastic was the visit of Premier Laval to America, since both France and ourselves were warned in advance that little good could come of it.

GILBERT SELDES What the inspired publicists actually said was that too great hope should not be encouraged. It seemed to me an excess of caution. Since 1918 we have seen so many Presidents and Prime Ministers meet, and observed so little good from their meetings, that we need no warning not to expect the millennium (or a five-point rise in the stock market) to issue from the meeting of two governmental leaders who are trying to compromise hostile points of policy. But if we wonder why they bothered to meet at all, we come to another mystery:

"Open" Diplomacy

That mystery is diplomacy, and diplomacy seems to be governed by protocol, and protocol, if it means anything, means the proper disposition of attaches on the right or left of the President, and includes the solution of the vexing problem about balconies: Does the visiting Prime Minister or the native President take the initiative in swinging his leg over the balcony rail? Protocol, it appears, determined that the daughter of M. Laval should have her photograph taken at a certain time and should sip tea at a certain place; and because protocol failed to inform certain people that protocol had changed its mind, the daughter of the Premier could not see a football game which, it appears, was her chief interest in coming to America.

Agenda Forever

Next to protocol, the diplomats have another dandy trick—called agenda. Agenda is the slip of paper on which you write the things to be done today; in diplomacy agenda are the subjects which will be discussed. And diplomats are far too clever to go into a conference without their agenda, so that when they meet they will not be forced into any conversation for which they are not ready. In the old diplomacy, ambassadors and secretaries would announce that they would meet other ambassadors and secretaries only on condition that certain questions were omitted from the agenda. And, by a coincidence, these were almost always the subjects which most peculiarly counted.

No End to It

Between protocol and agenda, the business of international agreement can be brought handily to a standstill. Chancellor X comes only to talk about fishing; Minister Y has his solemn word that the dispute about boundaries will not be broached. It is a marvellous thumb-twiddling business. We thought we were tired of it, years ago, that we fought a war to end it. It hasn't ended any more than the human race has ended.

The Marines Hear All

Ambassador Dawes, the other day, made the annual statement that the fate of civilization depends on Anglo-American friendship. The novelty is that instead of announcing this at the annual dinner of the Pilgrims, he told it to the marines. Specifically, to the Royal Manner Old Comrades' Association. For most of us, the statement is quite true; and if some new way could be found to phrase it, the imprudence of our duty might be brought out. I have no quarrel with international friendships, and I wish there were more of them and that nations would be like little children when they begin reading Dickens and Thackeray—feeling that you must choose one or the other.

The Lapps Are Safe

Yet I think it worth noting that it is only the Euro-American successor to the Euro-Roman-Christian civilization which is imperiled by the "unthinkable" war between America and England. The civilization of the pygmies in Africa would probably persist; it managed to hold on during and after the Great War. In the firstness of the Himalayas a civilization exists, despicable in our eyes, but not necessarily contemptible in the eyes of the historian of two thousand years from now.

At some peculiarly inspired meeting of Iroquois and Algonquians, when the pipe of peace had been smoked, it is probable that an orator rose and declared that civilization would be ruined unless the tribes of American Indians united to face the white foe. Yet we hastily assume that only the victory of the white man on the Atlantic seaboard saved America for civilization.

The Best Butter

It is the best civilization we have ever known—which is what people said about the war. I'd personally like to see it go, because I do not expect to live long enough to acustom myself to any other. But, following Spenser's advice, and looking at the world from the standpoint of eternity, I am forced to admit that our solitude for civilization is a little excessive. It will get on without us; and we, oddly enough, will get along without it. Only I doubt whether that particular kind of getting along will be worth much.

THIS IS LIFE

WELLS' CREED IS DEALT CRUEL BLOW, BUT HE,
LIKE PLATO, WILL LIVE

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

MR. H. G. WELLS, who is in Boston today, is, of course, but terly disappointed at the result of the English elections, in which the National and Conservative party politicians were returned to office with such a landslide majority as has not occurred in England since 1832 when the Liberals were able to force the Reform bill. From the beginning of his career, Wells has been a Socialist with he once defined as Love and Fair Thinking, some of the time a Fabian follower of late one of the intellectual wing of the British Labor party.

He did not seem, however, to be particularly surprised. A reader familiar with Wells' recent books can almost anticipate his opinion, based on the idea of almost automatic progress through science and engineering, seems severely shaken. The first sign of this doubt was seen in his novel, "Meanwhile," published about the British general election of 1928. The book is a severe criticism of two allied forces in Europe, the Fascist regime of Italy and the Tory influence in England, which Wells links together as forces of obstruction, selfishness, stupidity and obscurantism.

Sees It "Return to Privilege"

The general strike, he believed, was a deliberate rallying of the most reactionary forces in England to crush the people's freedom. The election of Monday last he can, of course, envisage only as an extreme demonstration of the same powers now apparently triumphant.

The thesis of "Meanwhile" was that post-war conditions were bad enough to make a habitual optimist (the chief character in another of Wells' self-portraits) despair about the possibility of progress. He has always taken it for granted that man will go on being more scientific, more intelligent, more liberal.
Now in Russian communism, in Italian fascism, in English toryism, in American plutocratic control, he sees a turning back to the Dark Ages of privilege, autocracy and greed. One symbol of that age is Lady Catherine, a rampant woman, motor car driver who runs down a man in the street and goes on. Another symbol is a fascist gang hunting down an Italian laborer for purposes of assassination. These destroy his belief in progress, he said.

"We took freedom for granted. We took progress and justice then, and now we cannot. No. All things in life, good things or bad things, rest on strength. . . . When I was young and read Herbert Spencer and the great liberal thinkers and I saw the great progress of the education, will come to thrift. Nothing comes of itself but weeds and confusion. We did not reckon with the hatred of dull people for things that are great and fair. We did not realize the strength of stupidity to call a halt to every hope we held. We thought there was no power of the law. The progress has been taken away. Progress has been weak and murdered."

Smashing Blow at Socialism

If Mr. Wells felt that after 1926, he cannot be thinking much differently today after the news of the election. Indeed, he once painted the picture in even darker colors, in "Mr. Blightsworth on Rampion Island," that black picture of primitive sav-agery and ignorance which mixes up in the delicious dreamer's mind with a picture he has of the future of the Saxon-Yankee case.
No, in spite of the fact that all England—all the England that counts—and most of America is hailing the Tory victory as a victory for stable judgment and traditional British hard sense, the group for which Mr. Wells has been for 40 years the most eloquent and persuasive of spokesmen, the group of life work all to begin again. The philosophy of English socialism the Labor party—probably the most intelligent and promising form of socialism until it got infected with Communism—has received a smashing blow.

But Mr. Wells has long-distance eyes. Always he has been more interested in the future than the present. The very title of his book, "Meanwhile," shows this. He sees his generation as a painful interlude between the evil stability of the past and the more ideal stability of the future. And he does not deceive himself as to his own value or that of his contemporaries.
He deprecates the idea that he is a great writer and that his books will live.

"I don't think I will be remembered," he said. "I'm really a sort of journalist. My job for many years has been to tell the contemporary facts in the past of the past. (He forgot to add,
"and in the light of the future.") "None of my books will live.
They are going to be replaced, I hope, by better books of the same kind. I don't even know whether I want to be remembered. The world has such much that the little people of today won't amount to very much."

Wells Like Plato and Will Live

If Mr. Wells is thinking of immortality in terms of Sophocles, Shakespeare and Goethe, the universal poets, he is probably right. In other terms, by no means so certain. His name Certainly his fame is assured for a few hundred years, like that of Burke and Paine, Carlyle and writers of that sort. No historian can deal adequately with the social history of the past 60 years without reference to Wells. His writings have constantly summed up, digested, analyzed, thrown into clear relief for the mind and imagination to feed up, the problems of our time. He has been right an astonishing number of times. He has one of the most representative voices of our day, of what he likes to call "the Mind of the Race."

One remembers another writer amazingly like Wells. His name was Plato, a professional teacher, a philosopher, a journalist and writer of ideological fiction. He had the same kind of mind as Wells, quicksilver bright, rapid, ingenious, full of variety and human interest. Like Wells he secreted ideas constantly summed up, digested, analyzed, thrown into clear relief
for the mind and imagination to feed up, the problems of our time. He has been right an astonishing number of times. He has one of the most representative voices of our day, of what he likes to call "the Mind of the Race."

Wells is too experienced a prophet not to know perfectly well that the Millennium will come in its own way, not in his.
For the time being he cannot help being downcast, minimize it as he may. But for a person who believes, with Horace, that there is no Being but Becoming, his inner, deeply-grounded faith must remain unshaken.

GLIMPSSES AT THE 'OTHER HALF' OVER THE HENNA GULI

By HELEN ROWLAND

TO A MAN, a decade is just ten years—but to a woman, it is a lifetime between youth and henna.

The average girl has no more regard for a wife's proprietary rights in her husband than the average husband has for his wife's or the personal ownership of handkerchiefs.

HELEN ROWLAND

When a man runs a wife in temptation in his hands, it is a pretty safe bet to predict that, somewhere in his late history, he'll be having back-swing for temptation to catch up with him.

Half the wife, doesn't know, has the other half left, and gets a glimpse of the bottles in her hands.

foul, it is a forbidden wife, tempted to back-swing for temptation to catch up with her.

Looks as though it will take more than a Eugene's hat and a bottle to make an ante-bellum lady out of a post-war Amazon.

DEGLANE USES POST TO SAVE TITLE

BROWNING ROBBED OF VICTORY

By JACK CONWAY

Henri Deglane, with his title as world's heavyweight wrestling champion while the grating of Jim Browning crashed his opponent's head against an iron ring post at the Arena.

Browning received a severe concussion. It was at first feared that his skull was fractured by the blow, but an examination proved that the actual injury was limited to a bad concussion.

When Deglane whirled Browning around, he moved forward two steps so that Browning's head was in line with the ring post. The Frenchman did not appear to be excited as he brought Browning in line with the post. He was cool and collected.

Browning, on the other hand, was helpless in his opponent's grasp. He could not do anything to help himself.

When Deglane had placed Browning in line with the iron post, he let him go. Jim's head hit the post a frightful thud, and he then collapsed.

When Browning struggled to his feet, Deglane picked him up as he would a child and tossed him. It is said that a Boston wrestling audience has conducted a riot since that star as it did Deglane, at the time of his victory over the Frenchman.

The fans felt the Frenchman had taken advantage of the ring post to avoid winning like a real wrestler. It is fortunate that wrestling and all parties concerned that Browning's injuries were not more serious.

Browning Scored With the First Fall

Browning was at his best in the early stages of his match with Deglane. The challenger appeared to be in better condition than the champion. He forced Deglane back under a furious attack.

Jim finally nailed Deglane with his famous top body scissor. He spun him three times before he pinned him for the first fall in five minutes.

When wrestling was resumed, Browning continued to press his advantage. Deglane resorted to punching and other rough tactics, but Browning was able to win the rough style of battle.

On one occasion Deglane came bounding off the ropes, and crashed into Browning. The latter was wounded for a few seconds, but came back fighting.

Browning clamped on a head breaker, and administered considerable punishment to the champion.

Jim then scored with his famous top body scissor. He pinned Deglane twice, and had the champion in trouble when the latter reversed himself. He then gripped Browning around the thighs and started to throw him.

Deglane walked over in the direction of the ropes, and let Browning drive for it. Browning was dashed by the force of the throw, but he should have stopped at that time, but Jim reversed the throw, and he was tossed by an inside crotch hold and body slam in 23m. 35s.

Browning Helpless When He Came Back to Mat

Deglane agreed to give Browning 15 minutes to get back on his feet. Instead of only ten. Jim, however, was in such poor physical condition, a result of the blow he got on the head that he was groggy when he went back into action.

The fans demanded that Referee Sam Smith halt the uneven contest and save Browning from unnecessary punishment. Smith stopped the tussle after 34 seconds of wrestling.

It was several minutes before Browning was able to get out of the ring.

Deglane won, but his victory was a very hollow one. He should have been disqualified for the tactics he used to bring about the defeat of Browning.

George and Wyckoff in 30-Minute Draw

Ed George and Les Wyckoff battled 30 minutes to a draw. There wasn't much to choose between the two rivals at the finish. I thought George was a little bit stronger, which was probably due to the fact he is carrying some extra weight.

Charles Strick and Count Zary-noff went 20 minutes to a draw. Frank Judson and Al Morelli also were even at the end of 30 minutes. Just as the bout ended, Morelli tackled Judson and both crumpled under crashing to the floor of the Arena.

Fats Carmichael and Boris Demmer were on even terms at the end of 10 minutes of wrestling.

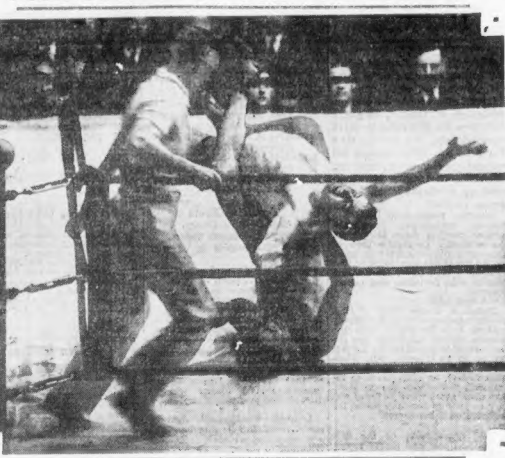

Alto Bersinger of Kentucky University tossed Floyd Strick of Lynn in 6 minutes 31 seconds.

Johnny Russell of Vermont and Joe Cook went 10 minutes to a draw.

Fights Last Night

At Newark, Conn., N. Y., a list of the Newark Evening Post, N. Y., dated Nov. 1, 1931, shows that Jim Browning, Ed. George, Les Wyckoff, and Frank Judson, Al Morelli, and Joe Cook went 10 minutes to a draw.

A top body scissor, applied by Jim Browning, slowed down Champion Henri Deglane at the Arena shortly before Deglane saved his mat title by banging Browning's head on the uncovered ring post shown at left. Referee Sam Smith had difficulty dodging the swing of Deglane's body on this hold in the corner. Browning won the first fall. He was going well in the second when Deglane swung his foot so that his head banged the ring post. That almost finished Browning. He then was easy picking for the champ.

KICKOFF WILL BE RETAINED

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Attention to abolish the kickoff as a result of the death of Dick Sheridan in the Yale-Armory game has met with a somewhat chilly reception from the football rules committee.

Members of the committee of nine, when asked for comment by the Associated Press, indicated they favored retention of the kickoff. Two others declined to comment, and the ninth could not be reached for a statement.

H. J. Ruggman of the University of Georgia expressed the view of most of the rules committee members when he called the kickoff one of the most spectacular plays in the game.

On one occasion Deglane came bounding off the ropes, and crashed into Browning. The latter was wounded for a few seconds, but came back fighting.

Eli-Green Game Even; Holy Cross Has Edge

been defeated by New York University, 27-7. Comparative scores would indicate great Holy Cross strength, but the weakness in such a method of comparison is that there is no way to check on the difference in the Rutgers team play on succeeding Saturdays.

Holy Cross has been strong defensively. It held Dartmouth to 14 points and Fordham to six points. Without question it is the strongest team Brown has faced. Brown defeated Princeton, 19-7; Tufts, 38-12, and Lehigh, 33-0, in its last three starts. No one of those teams has similar strength to Holy Cross. It should be a hard game, but Holy Cross would seem to hold a slight edge.

The Columbia-Cornell game brings two of the best teams those universities have had in recent years into action. A year ago in an amazing upset Columbia won and generally has been favored to repeat. Lou Little has done a marvelous job with his Columbia material, but he is tackling a good Cornell team, one that has been tested for two weeks and has great scoring power. If Columbia has an advantage it lies in the fact that the team has been tested more severely than Cornell and has succeeded in meeting those tests. Actually Cornell is untested, and until this game must remain a mystery as to its real strength. A touchdown either way should decide it.

Syracuse and Michigan State should provide one of the great games of the season, with the former having a good chance to keep its undefeated record. New York University is too strong for Oregon, which will be affected by the transcontinental journey. Pennsylvania should keep its undefeated record against Lafayette.

Fordham is heavily favored over West Liberty. Harvard should play over Virginia. Colgate over Mississippi College. Army over Colorado, Navy over West Virginia Wesleyan. Pittsburgh, with a great line which could hold the Notre Dame running attack, is favored to swing back on the victory path against Penn State.

In the South, Tulane, one of the great teams of the country, plays Mississippi Aigles. Tennessee plays Drake and Georgia plays Florida, and there seems little chance of any of the three, who are the sectional leaders, being upset.

West Conference and Mid-Western teams undoubtedly will find favorites winning. Notre Dame finds an opponent easier than Pittsburgh in Carnegie Tech. Ohio State is favored over Indiana, Minnesota over Wisconsin and Northwestern over Illinois. Michigan, tripping East to meet Princeton, is favored to have its opponent a fourth defeat in four starts. This has been an unusually bad season for Princeton. Yet from such seasons as Princeton now is experiencing great seasons often develop. It usually takes time to make a complete change from one brand of football to another.

Southern California does not play on the Coast, but Stanford meets University California of Los Angeles and California plays Nevada. Bill Ingram has brought California along nicely. It did a great job holding Southern California to a 6-0 game.

Another exclusive article on football by Eddie Casey will appear in the sports pages of the Boston Evening American on Monday.

Fans Boo 'Canzoneri in Title Defense Tilt'

Newark, N. J., Oct. 30 (AP)—Tony Canzoneri's title 'defense' against Phil Griffin of Newark proved just a light workout for the chunky little New York Italian. Canzoneri, who holds two world championships, risked the loser of them, the junior welterweight title, but he did not seem to be at all keeping it in his possession, winning the decision by a wide margin after 10 easy rounds.

The spectacle proved somewhat disappointing to the crowd, after losing a chorus of boos at the champion many of the fans gave up and went home early.

Jack Conway Says Browning Should Have Won

Jack Conway added one more to his list of winning selections when Henri Deglane won from Jim Browning at the Arena.

"Don't give me any credit for the selection," Jack said today. "Browning should have won. Even a great challenger cannot out the power concentrated in an iron post."

Conway's 1931 record follows:

CASEY TO USE ONLY SUBS

Harvard will use second string players only, when the Crimson meets Virginia in the Stadium tomorrow. Coach Eddie Casey of Harvard picked his starting eleven today.

With the exception of Eddie Mays, whose regular ranking is 22nd man on the Harvard eleven, not a single first flight player will start for Harvard.

Eugene Record and Bill Francisco will be the Crimson ends. For tackle, Casey has selected Bob Faxon and Frank Kales. The Harvard guards named are Ginn and Rogers, while Charlie Cunningham will be at the pivot post.

Danny Wells, starting at quarterback for Harvard, will direct the Crimson attack throughout the game. His supporting backs are John Smith, Eddie Mays and Charlie Nevin.

What appeared at first as a very one-sided game may prove a close tilt with the Cavaliers. Coach Dawson of Virginia has a fairly rugged line and a light backfield four to three into the tilt in the All-out gridiron.

The Virginia line, received at Harvard today, indicated that all the Cavalier first stringers would be in the game. The Cavaliers' line has a left tackle, Bryant, left guard, Rice, center, DePinto, right guard, Rohrbough, right tackle, and Gravel, right end.

The Boston University eleven that faces Rhode Island State at Natick tomorrow will have Capt. Jimmy McCarthy, Gus Leguerra and Whitey Smith on the regular lineup and Ennis Sherman and Adams reserve backs also on the bench.

McCarthy has been a member of a bad leg for two weeks, and a clot formed just below his right knee. The injury prohibited him from playing in the next two games.

Of the five men on the injured list, four are backs.

Chicago Captain Defends Staggy

Chicago, Oct. 30 (INS)—An attack on Alton Amos Staggy, a reliable football coach of the University of Chicago, printed anonymously in the letter column of the campus newspaper was answered today by a letter signed by Stan Horvitz, captain of the Maroon gridiron eleven. Horvitz, in defending Amos's oldest football coach, again pointed out that the attention to Staggy's long and brilliant career and pointed out that the unfavorable showing of the team was due to lack of good material.

God bless the ladies!

And now Billy Cuddy, who stages amateur boxing shows for the St. Joe T. A. Society at the Marlborough Building every Saturday night, has established a special section for the members of the fair sex who like to see the punches hence.

Under the Cuddy system, the girls don't require an escort. Bill tells me that 200 to 300 ladies go to his shows every week on their own. Just like they do in the ball games, hockey matches and football games.

Tunes are not just what they used to be when, as a girl, Hanna was a girl. At that time, I don't believe some of the ladies who attend our boxing matches could sing a pretty good right hand punch. Hanna was a girl.

Back in the days when folks lived in caves, the women used to guard the home with knives and spears when their husbands were away hunting. I do not believe that the girls have entirely forgotten how to scratch.

I met a French girl in New York at the time of the William-Pepp Johnson bout. She said she had done considerable boxing in France, and asked Ted Richard to give her a bout in the Garden. She studied his way out of the predicament.

Incidentally Cuddy will feature novice heavyweight tomorrow night. All the neighborhood truck drivers and longshoremen will receive an opportunity to prove just how hard they can punch.

There will be bouts in six other classes, but the big fellows will receive most of the attention.

Speakin' of ladies attending boxing matches, gorgeous Georges Carpenter was a tremendous idol with the dolls. When the Frenchman battled Jack Dempsey at Jersey City, the good-looking gathered from all parts of the world just to see him box. The Scouter's line has a left tackle, Bryant, left guard, Rice, center, DePinto, right guard, Rohrbough, right tackle, and Gravel, right end.
